

social-decarbon

Low Carbon Pathways for Health & Social Care

Funded by
NIHR | National Institute for
Health and Care Research

PAID SOCIAL CARE RESEARCH INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITY

We are seeking to appoint 2 x Research Interns for a 12-week period to join LSHTM to work on a new NIHR-funded project called Social-Decarbon: Identifying and modelling targeted low-carbon social care services.

This is an exciting opportunity to be part of a large multidisciplinary collaboration between LSHTM and the University of Stirling, Care City Innovation CIC, and a wide network of UK stakeholders. The project is led by Professor Shereen Hussein.

Program Details

- Location: London
- Duration: 12 Weeks
- Start: December 2026
- Work Mode: Hybrid
- Salary: £21.97 per hour (ex, holiday pay)

Who We Are Looking For

- Current MSc students
- Recent graduates
- People who have worked in social care

For Intern 1:

- Some experience with literature reviews
- Some knowledge of social care and climate policy priorities for the UK

For Intern 2:

- Someone comfortable working with quantitative data
- Some experience of structured evidence retrieval and data extraction
- Familiarity with health economics

FOR MORE INFORMATION & TO APPLY:

Submit your CV and a short cover letter to Social-Decarbon@lshtm.ac.uk

Applications will close on 26th October
2026 at 12pm UK time

LONDON
SCHOOL of HYGIENE
& TROPICAL
MEDICINE

